

Librarians' Internet Index

Websites you can trust! <http://lii.org>

Everyone can use LII...

- Free website featuring high-quality, librarian-vetted websites across a broad range of topics of interest to librarians, lifelong learners, and other information super-users
- Free weekly newsletter offering the latest additions to LII (now in three flavors: plain text, fancy colorized version, and RSS feed)
- Special collections on hot issues and perennial favorites (elections, the Olympics, women's history, etc.)
- No ads or pop-ups, no registration (except to sign up for newsletter)
- New design, new features (mail-an-item, mail-a-topic)

How your state or organization can partner with us...

- We can create, organize, and maintain regional content on LII, and feature new regional content in our newsletter (We do this for Washington state)
- We can be a "silent partner," hosting your content which you enter in our system but publish on your own site (We have plans to do this for another entity)
- We can produce custom content, which we export to your system and optionally offer on LII as well (We do this for University of California's California Digital Library)

Popular and proven!

- Over 18,000 websites, with 50-70 new sites every week
- Over 30,000 newsletter subscribers; the LII website gets > 10 million hits per month
